“It’s important to me that people understand that you are helping the helpless. It means a lot that we’re there for them, sometimes crying along with them.”

Ronda Ellis never had a moment of doubt.

“I never considered being anything besides an attorney. My father is a lawyer as are my two brothers and seven cousins,” says the personal injury attorney and founding partner of the noted Boca Raton-based law firm of Ellis, Ged & Bodden, P.A.

A graduate of the New England School of Law, Ellis has spent more than 14 years helping to build the firm from the ground up. Over the years, she has achieved considerable success in product liability and personal injury cases. Her dedication and personal approach to clients have been instrumental in cementing Ellis, Ged & Bodden’s reputation for providing compassionate and comprehensive legal counsel in the areas of Personal Injury and Wrongful Death Litigation, Immigration, Maritime Law, Family Law, Real Estate & Business Law, Estate Planning and Asset Protection.

“The law isn’t just about rules,” Ellis says, “It’s about relationships. You have to be willing to listen. At Ellis, Ged and Bodden, our mission is simple,” she adds, “We want to make a positive impact on people’s lives.”

Ellis’ personal mission to impact people’s lives is not limited to the hours in the workday. Her passion has propelled her to become actively involved in the community. She has taken a proactive role in a number of organizations, including her church, St. Andrews School, where her two children attend classes, the Boy Scouts of America, various political campaigns and The George Snow Scholarship Fund.

As a working mother with a challenging career, Ellis is constantly juggling the many facets of life that require her time and expertise. While she cherishes the trust her clients have placed in her, her friends know that she is as committed to her family and her community as she is to her profession. “I think most women understand that life is a balancing act,” Ellis says.

Ellis, Ged & Bodden P.A. is located at 7171 North Federal Highway, Boca Raton. For more information, call 561-995-1966 or visit ellisandged.com.
